

Humana People to People China (HPP China) works to create better development opportunities for disadvantaged people through solidary actions, standing shoulder-to-shoulder with those in need, striving for a better tomorrow.

The main force within HPP China is the outreach worker – the FC Farming Instructor, the CD Area Leader, the TB Control Worker, the Malaria Control Worker, the TCE Field Officer, and the POF teacher. These are the young women and men, recruited from the local communities in which our projects operate, who day after day meet with people, discuss issues with them, organize them, train them, teaching their kids, and become a part of their struggle for creating a better life. It is the hard work, the humble work, of those who work shoulder-to-shoulder with the people that make a difference.

HPP China's locally based project leaders live and work in the project towns and townships and guide the outreach workers. HPP China empowers people to help themselves, to realize their full potential, give them the tools and opportunities to take control of their own development, and create a culture of Solidary Humanism.

HPP China is currently working with more than 10 projects in 3 provinces of China (Yunnan, Sichuan and Chongqing) within the sectors of San Nong (Sustainable Rural Livelihoods), Health, Education and Community Development. We have reached over 3.0 million people since we started projects in 2007.

We deliver the social impact we promise:

Based on more than 35 years of field implementation experience, our projects are characterized by:

Long-term commitment to the community: projects usually last 3 years or more, as we know development takes time, and requires changes not only in the surroundings, but also in knowledge, attitudes and practice.

Sustainability: we design the projects to be sustainable so that the activities will go on and changes for the better continue, even we leave after 3-5 years.

Participatory development and Help to Self-help: people are the drivers of change, so community participation is a foundation for all our projects.

Engaged staff at grassroots level: there are 160 full time and 15 part time employees and 475 volunteers working in HPP China projects. They live in the community during the entire project period to gain trust and ensure effectiveness.

Systematic monitoring and reporting: we have transparent working mechanisms and secure effectiveness through regular internal or external assessments and regular reporting to partners.

Health

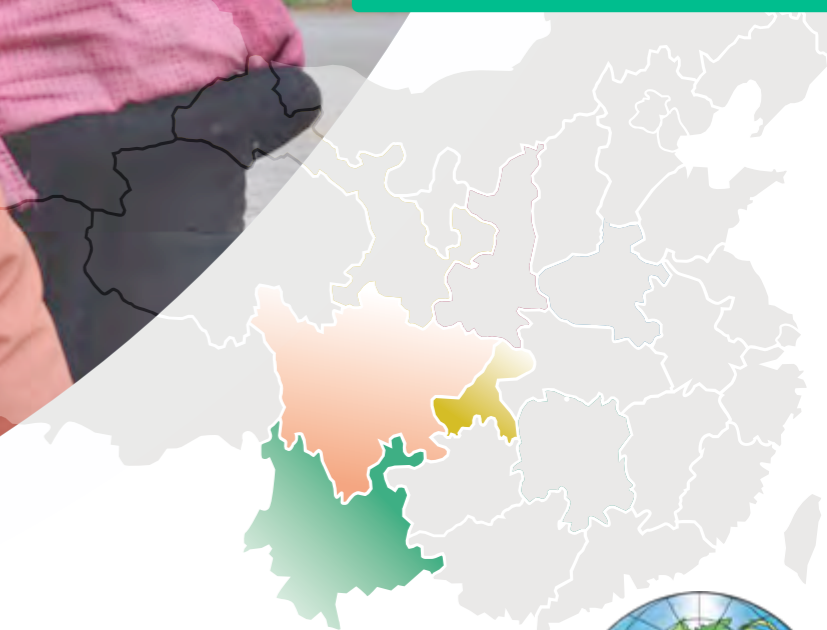

We improve water and sanitation. We improve nutrition and promote health in general. Through community mobilization and health education, we contribute to controlling (TB, HIV) and eliminating (Malaria) these diseases as well as create job opportunities through employment of local outreach workers.

Rural Development

Through mobilizing and training local farmers, we increase production, improve food security and income as well as self-esteem and self-confidence in rural communities.

Rural Preschool Education

We provide preschool education for 3-6 year aged kids in remote villages who usually don't have access to preschool education and in this way prepare them better for a confident future life as well as for primary school education.

HUMANA PEOPLE TO PEOPLE CHINA

Rural Development ('CD' and 'FC')

HPP China has two types of rural development projects: Community Development projects and Farmers' Clubs projects.

Community Development projects aim at assisting people to reduce poverty and build capacities in individuals, families and communities. Increasing the quality of life for people living in poverty is accomplished by increasing income and production, managing natural resources efficiently, and improving health and education. The projects organize communities to collectively perform the tasks of securing food, securing drinking water, improving health and hygiene, solving problems of childcare, and supporting sustainable farming methods.

The aim of the Farmers' Clubs project is to assist farmers to fight their way free of poverty. Informal Farmers' Clubs are established in natural villages, typically with 30 to 50 farmers in each club. Through the clubs, farmers organize purchase of agricultural inputs, common transportation, and common marketing to be able to reduce costs and increase profits for their produce. Additionally, new agricultural methods to increase yields, crop quality, and environmental sustainability are also taught, and new varieties of crops or animal breeds are introduced.

Total Control of the Epidemic ('TCE')

Total Control of the Epidemic (TCE) is a comprehensive and systematic community mobilization strategy for behaviour change.

"Only people can liberate themselves from HIV/AIDS - the epidemic" is the basic idea of TCE. HPP has used the TCE approach and methodology to fight the spread of the HIV virus and the disease of AIDS that follows in its wake. It is a systematic approach to behaviour change, with the aim of disseminating information to all people in the whole area, providing education and counselling and mobilizing people to take control of HIV/AIDS. The Field Officer goes out into the field day after day, knocking on doors, visiting schools and workplaces to reach every single person. S/he gives face-to-face talks about HIV/AIDS, mobilizes people to know their current status and HIV/AIDS prevention. Besides HIV/AIDS, TCE also does TB and Malaria prevention work. During 2009-2014, HPP is acting as the sole provincial level international NGO, cooperating with the China Centre for Disease Prevention and Control for China Global Fund TB programme. For the China Global Fund Malaria Programme in 2007-2012, the Total Malaria Control program covered 560,000 households, totalling 2.872 million people in 12 counties in Yunnan. All the targeted villages have their own Malaria Control Workers to pay household and school visits to spread information about malaria prevention.

 - TCE Linxiang (Yunnan) (Nov 2006 - Feb 2010)

Preschools Of the Future ('POF')

It is the goal of HPP China to provide high-quality preschool education for children in communities where access to preschool education is limited. In order to create an opportunity for poor children to break free from the cycle of poverty, HPP China establishes its Preschools of the Future in rural communities with the greatest need. The POF project trains the teachers, creates the curriculum, designs activities for the running of the schools, and guides the Parents' Committees through training in early childhood development, nutrition, sanitation, and health.
